Pop band in limelight

Caruso, an up-and-coming pop band from Trenton, has recently returned from a prestigious engagement in Miami Beach, Fla. The band performed at the Championship Auto Racing Team's annual convention. Luminaries in attendance were racers Al Unser Jr. and his father, as well as Tom Monaghan, owner of the Detroit Tigers.

Upon their return from Miami, Caruso learned of its nomination to the National Association of Campus Activities 1986 Entertainment Ballot.

Colleges and universities across the country will cast their votes this month. Winners of the 1986 Campus Entertainment Awards will be announced in February of 1986.

With all the touring information requested from fans in twenty states, Caruso has established a 24-hour hotline service. Interested people can call [redacted] for up-to-date tour schedules.
